

30th Annual National Council on Educating Black Children

2016
Call to Convention

APRIL 20-23, 2016
Hilton, Baltimore Harbor

Theme:

K-20 INTROSPECTION ON URBAN EDUCATION:
BLACK MINDS MATTER

Featuring the Asa G. Hilliard III Seminar Speaker:
Dr. Adelaide L. Sanford
Friday, April 22, 2016

Dr. Sanford's professional career has spanned the elementary through college and graduate school levels. She has been a classroom teacher, teacher of guidance, assistant principal, and principal in the New York City school system. She taught education courses at Baruch College and at Fordham University. She was a visiting practitioner and teaching fellow at the Principals' Center at Harvard University, Graduate School of Education. Honorary doctorates were conferred on the former Regent of the Board of Regents of the State University of New York (in March 2001, she was elected Vice Chancellor of the Board of Regents) by Mercy College, The Bank Street College of Education, Five Towns College, and most recently, St. John's University. She is a graduate of Brooklyn College, Wellesley College, and Fordham University, where she was a Ford Foundation Fellow in Urban Education. On the occasion of the 125th Anniversary of Wellesley College in Massachusetts, the African Studies Department presented The First Distinguished Black Alumna Award to Adelaide Sanford in recognition of her lifetime accomplishments.

For more information or to register for the convention, please call (317) 283-9081