

Afrocentricity International Salutes Haiti!

Even after Haiti suffered through the handpicked US stooge Martelly's tragico-comic reign, the country's profoundly hardened cadres of freedom loving people have rebounded to force the US and France and the UN to respect the will of the masses. "Martelly must go!" became their cry, and now the Core Group has agreed with the people that there should be a provisional government. The people shouted with vehemence and a determined chant of resistance. They would not and did not follow the script that had been written by international forces, greedy corporate zealots, migrating elites, and petty thugs because they swore to the Ancestors who defeated the French at Vertières that they would hold their freedom dear. No African people had ever achieved such a universal victory over a European power and to the extent that outsiders want to abrogate the sovereignty of the people and make them pariahs in their own lands: the African people of Haiti give a resounding "No" to the pillagers.

Afrocentricity International believes that the time has come for Haitians and the friends of Haiti to demand that the international interlopers stop preventing open elections and the creation of democratic institutions in Haiti. Do not misunderstand the times, Haiti is not free and will not be free until the various and competing Ngos, cronies of France and the United States, and United Nations' soldiers leave the country. The fact that Jules Cantave has been appointed the provisional president is a first step. It is not the last step, and Jules Cantave will do well to remember that he is simply sitting in place until the people have their say about who should rule them.

While Afrocentricity International never involves itself in the internal politics of nations, it does exercise a strong and powerful voice in support of the people's freedom wherever and whenever that peace is threatened. Africa must be united and there must be solidarity among all African peoples on the continent and in the Diaspora. Haiti is a formidable part of the African world and we would never be the same without the history of Antenor Firmin, Dessalines, and Aristide.

The time will soon come when the OAS, US, UN, and EU will be out of Haiti and a new electoral council can lay out rules for a peaceful and democratic election. Afrocentricity International had called upon all Haitians to resist modern-day enslavement parading as free elections supervised by a “world community” that did not want to accept the collective verdict of the Haitian people. Now, if the elections are held in a fair and peaceful environment where all political parties are involved, then the Haitians will rejoice that their voices have been heard.

Afrocentricity International chapters around the world are asked to support the Haitian people in every way.

Long live Haiti! Long live the Dream of our Ancestors that we be a free and proud people! Haiti forever!
